SPORTING NEWS.

BY LEON.

WAKE UP.

Say, what is the matter with the ball tossers of these diggings? There seems to be a slump since the days have grown long and hot. Let's be up and a-doing. It looks as if all interest is centered on Nashville of the Southern League. Now that won't do. Let's do something ourselves. The Standard Giants have returned from their Southwestern trip with several scalps dangling to their belts, and it is to be hoped the trip did not break them down.

Following is what the East and West are doing. A few days ago the Philadelphia Giants met the Royal Giants on the Brooklyn National League grounds, the game being hotly contested from start to finish, Philadelphia winning by a score of 4-3. Batteries: Philadelphia—McClellan and Petway. Royal—Buckner and Johnson.

The features of the game were the heavy hitting of Petway and the superb fielding of Merritt. These same teams meet again July 4.

Mr. J. Blaine Boyd, manager of the National Baptist team, with his new and strong line up of many new faces, is in receipt of a challenge from the Methodist Publishing House team, to be pulled off July 4th. This will be a great drawing card if these teams can be brought together. Each team has a great many followers who, no doubt, would go out to cheer them to victory. Should the managers decide to meet, it will be announced in these columns next week.

THE SQUEEZE.

The squeeze is nothing but stealing home with a new name. To execute it you must work by signals. The batter and the runner must work together to make the play a success. First, the runner must be off as far as the baseman will allow, and as the pitcher delivers, start for home. It is previously understood by the batsman that he must hunt at all hazards. The chances are two to one the runner will score if the hunt is hit and goes fair, providing the hit is on the ground or not caught on the fly. With fast men it is possible to make a double squeeze, with runners on second and third. Let everybody move with the pitcher's arm. With a good hunter at the bat the play is possible.

THE RING.

Jack Johnson, the heavy weight, after spending the winter in Australia, has returned East to find all the (white) fighters hid or trying to hide. While away he had two bouts, which he handled with ease, put the goods in his pockets and came back to look for Mr. Squires, the now touted good man. On being asked what he thought of the fighters abroad, he said, "I saw all the good fighters; yes, I saw Squires box. He is nothing but a big man and a husky mixer, just a plain, old slugger. Burns is also short, with no punch. I don't think their bout will bring out any world beater, for both are in need of what it takes to make a real fighter."

A TIP.

It is well, if you have a few frags, to place them on Lee and Austin, the jockeys.

We would like to hear from the "Blues," the "Reds," the "Jackets," the "Hornets," the "Charley Allen's" etc.

We publish all sport if sent to this office not later than Wednesday noon.
